Greetings to all my fellow divers ~

This is the time of year when diving is probably the least likely of our thoughts. What with friends and family coming over for the holidays, the last thing we can probably do is think about diving.

Our country has had more than 200 summers since the Pilgrims dropped anchor in Cape Cod Bay. In that time, I wonder what kind of ocean the pilgrims would have had to explore had they been able to go under the waves, rather than spend their time on that little necessity called survival?

There are several accurate accounts of what Massachusetts Bay was like in those early years. Several paintings exist showing an incredible abundance of fish and marine mammal life jumping about in Cape Cod Bay. Interesting to note, the Pilgrims were looking for SOIL, but their real lifeline was in the sea.

Further to the north in Canada, lobsters were the problem. When every child came home from school, they had to go out and rake the lobsters off the beach before they could come home and do their studies. Many children complained that they had too much lobster to eat when in reality they wanted that baloney sandwich!!! In the prisons, an ordinance was passed making it unlawful to feed a prisoner more than 3 lobsters per day!

Today, as we know, it is a far different problem. Nowadays, we feel lucky to see that one big daddy bug on our dive, let alone crawling along some beach. Today we feel lucky that we can see that one huge striper! How did things get to be so bad that the most fish we see is in an aquarium???

The answer might not be that easy to find. Maybe it is that there are just too many people for the ocean to support. Maybe we just can't keep treating the ocean as if it were our own private waste dump. Whatever the reason, I hope you can take a few minutes this holiday season, to be thankful for all the wonderful sights you have seen under the waves this year. Shipwrecks, big fish, even getting something back that you thought that was forever lost to the sea. Be thankful for what you have experienced this year.

Next, as the new year draws ever closer, make a commitment to yourself. Make that commitment to do that beach cleanup, recycle that glass jar that you would normally throw away, or just try to learn more about what made this land so plentiful to the people who had it in their grasp so many years ago. As divers, I believe we can set the standard and educate people so that our precious maritime resources can be there for generations to come. Always, the best way is by the example you set. Make sure all your catch is legal. Respect the private property abutting our dive sites. Always make sure that the only thing you leave behind is your footprints.

The oceans didn't get into their present condition overnight so certainly they won't get healthy again by next week or the week after. But every little thing we do, no matter how small, will help insure that our resources will be there for the next generation of divers.

And what better way to start building that next generation of divers than by introducing a new diver to all the activities and events of our diving family! Check out the latest club activities in this issue for a complete update, or go online to the club website.

We are eager to listen to any of your comments, concerns, and suggestions! Just send an email to:

Restaurant Review

Sunday Brunch at the Sylvan Street Grill By Mia Peluso

Instead of going diving on Sunday, November 20th, some of us opted to do brunch at The Sylvan Street Grill. The price was $11.00 for the buffet, and included juice, coffee and tea.

They had various pastries, bagels, and make your own Belgian waffles. There were also various fresh fruits and canned peaches.

For all you meat lovers they had plenty to choose from (bacon, sausage, ham), along with different kinds of eggs, including Eggs Benedict, scrambled eggs and breakfast burritos, and there was a chef who made your omelets to order. There were crepes with apples wrapped inside.

It all looked and tasted so yummy. I would recommend if you go there that you bring your appetites; lots of food for not that much money. Out of a possible 5 fork (5 being the best and 0 being the worst), I give this restaurant a:

Member of the Month November 2005

Dodie Carvalho

for graciously hosting the Club Halloween Party

Thank you!!

Member of the Month December 2005

John Sears

for doing most of the work to organize the Annual Club Banquet

Thank you!!

PRESIDENT'S BANQUET

The North Shore Frogmen's Club 2005 Annual President's Banquet will be held at the Franco-American Club in Beverly on the evening of Saturday, December 10th.

TC and the Torpedoes will provide the music. The dinner will be catered by Canosa Caterers of Lynnfield. The menu will include baked stuffed chicken, roast beef, oven roasted vegetables and potatoes, and vegetarian baked ziti; desert will be a cake donated by Flavors to Savor.

Five different appetizers will be served during the cocktail hour beginning at 7 PM; and dinner will be served at 8.

The Photo Contest pictures will be available for viewing at the banquet.

There will be great raffle prizes, both dive gear and non-dive related.

Invite your friends, bring your dancing shoes and plan for a great time!!! As Barb Crisman used to put it when she organized the banquet, "this is our one dress-up occasion!"

Tickets for the Banquet are on sale and available now! Price is currently $30 dollars per person. $15 will be charged for non-dining guests.

Contact John Sears for tickets.

FROGGY WEAR

Mike Denneler has a collection of fine Froggy Wear for sale which he will be bringing to all the meetings between now and Christmas. The clothing items all have patches with Freddie swimming across a dive flag. The lapel pin is a very handsome addition to any outfit.

REASONABLE PRICES!

GREAT GIFT IDEAS!

Lapel pins: $10
Hats $10
Polo shirts $15
Patches 3 for $10
Magnets 2 for $10

Polo shirts, hats, lapel pins and patches or magnets
